From Monday morning all gates will be closed at 9am. Any children arriving after that time will need to be brought to the school office for the adult bringing them to sign them in and let us know why they are late.

Music Listening

Line Riders - Beethoven's 5th

Line Rider is an Internet game that was created around 10 years ago. It revolves around the concept of drawing lines with your mouse, so that Bosh, the little boy on a sledge can ride on them. In Doodle Chaos' video, Bosh corresponds with instrument parts, coming in, dropping out and multiplying perfectly in time with Beethoven's score. Absolutely everything is drawn by hand, creating a painstaking synchronisation which visualises every exciting moment from the symphony's first movement.

The children might notice letters "mp, f, ff" as the characters sledges through the music. These are dynamic (volume) markings:

- ★ pp - pianissimo - very soft
- ★ p - piano - soft
- ★ mp - mezzo piano - medium soft
- ★ mf - mezzo forte - medium loud
- ★ f - forte - loud
- ★ ff - fortissimo

The arch with a dot in the middle is called a fermata - these are 'pauses' - maybe a discussion about the importance of silence within the music / anticipation etc could ensue.

~ Happy Listening ~

Weekly Art

Lynette Yiadom-Boakye

Citrine by the Ounce 2014

Doreen Chambers and Philippe Monrougié

© Lynette Yiadom-Boakye

Lynette Yiadom-Boakye was born in London in 1977. Her parents moved to Britain from Ghana in the 1960s. They were both nurses. When she was little, she liked to daydream and use her imagination. Before she decided to become an artist she wanted to be an optician!

When she grew up, she went to art school. She tried some different types of art but decided she enjoyed painting the most. She spent a lot of time learning to paint 'from life' - which means she painted what she saw in front of her. Later on, she changed her mind. She realised she was less interested in painting pictures of real people and more interested in the act of painting itself.

The people in Yiadom-Boakye's paintings are not real. In fact, they're all imaginary! She invents them. She uses a mix of images she finds in magazines which she cuts out and adds to her scrapbook, as well as memories and sketches she's made. Her paintings don't try to reveal anyone's real character and she never paints from a model. For this reason, she doesn't even call them portraits!

The people in her paintings are usually resting, dancing or thinking hard about something. Sometimes, they have animals with them, like owls, parrots or cats.

Questions to help support discussion

- Do you ever draw people from your imagination?
- Do you have an imaginary pet?
- What sort of character does this man have?

Welcome
