HEADS UPDATE

from Amanda Seager

Hazel class had a really exciting trip out to Frome College this week, where they were able to take part in a variety of science activities. The children really enjoyed being able to use the specialist equipment in the science lab and having the chance to work with the College science teachers. Willow class will be making their visit after the half term break. Both visits are part of a special outreach programme designed to inspire and enthuse younger children about science.

Oak and Maple classes have been taken over today by a host of famous people! The children look amazing in their costumes and it is clear to see that lots of thought and effort has gone into creating them. This dressing up day is to celebrate the work the children have been doing this term, learning about a variety of famous people. It is lovely to see how that learning has inspired so many of the children's costumes today.

In addition to those bits of news from the classrooms, I would really like to take this opportunity to say a huge thank you to you as parents and carers of Trinity children. Two members of staff are currently facing really challenging situations outside of school, which have led to them needing to take significant amounts of time away from school. The response from parents has been so brilliantly understanding and positive, and in both cases the parents immediately concerned have gone above and beyond to show their concern and empathy. The staff have been really touched by the kind, thoughtful and generous response from parents and it has completely reinforced my long-held belief that we have a very special community around us. I know very well from conversations with colleagues at other schools and from things I read about and hear in the press and on social media that not all school communities are as kind and caring as ours. Thank you for everything you do, however big or small, to make us feel valued and nurtured.
